Welcome to tiny toes ballet™

A message from our founder, Emma Morgan

A Message from Our Founder, Emma

Hi, I'm Emma, and I'm so excited that you're interested in joining the tiny toes ballet family! I wanted to give you insight into the heart of our business so you can understand what tiny toes ballet is all about - starting from the very beginning.

Where It All Began

Tiny toes ballet was founded in 2011 based on a belief I've always held: every child has a natural desire to move, create, and express themselves. This was clear when my five-month-old son began dancing in his high chair to music - it reminded me that learning through movement should feel joyful, free, and instinctive.

As a professionally trained classical ballet dancer, Royal Academy of Dance teacher, and former primary school teacher, I've seen how ballet can benefit children - but strict training can limit creativity. Tiny toes ballet bridges that gap by combining ballet structure with imagination, storytelling, and play to nurture confidence, creativity, and a lifelong love of movement.

Where Is tiny toes ballet Today?

Since 2011, tiny toes ballet has grown from a small group to thousands of children each week. By 2015, we opened three franchises across South Wales. Today, we are a supportive community offering a curriculum that blends ballet technique with playful learning, helping children grow at their own pace.

I hope this brochure gives you a clear sense of who we are, what makes tiny toes special, and how our franchise could be the perfect next step for you.

The tiny toes ballet programme has been featured in dancing times, the UK's leading dance magazine.

What makes tiny toes ballet so special?

At tiny toes, children learn the foundations of ballet through storytelling, imagination and play - not pressure or perfection. A simple story can become a ballet adventure, and a game can quietly build balance, coordination and confidence.

Every class is designed to support children's early learning, development and wellbeing, while keeping joy and creativity at the heart of everything we do.

The programme is built on Emma's experience as both a professionally trained ballet dancer and qualified primary school teacher, and shaped by one clear belief: children learn best when they feel happy, safe and encouraged.

Each week we see the impact through:

- Growing confidence
- Improved concentration
- Bursts of creativity
- Beaming, proud smiles

Children who continue with ballet gain a strong technical foundation. Those who don't still leave with valuable life skills such as confidence, cooperation, listening and resilience.

More than a dance class

Tiny toes is more than a ballet class. It is a holistic early years programme, designed to complement what children are already learning at nursery and school, while helping them fall in love with movement from a young age.

"The quality of the experience is fantastic! For my child there are so many benefits of tiny toes classes; confidence, relationships with adults and children, musicality, physical development and the enjoyment of dance and performance, regardless of ability."

Programme overview

Tiny toes ballet teaches ballet to children aged 6 months to 7 years through imaginative themes and creative play.

Benefits of franchising with tiny toes

A Tried & Tested Programme

Tiny toes ballet is the UK's only pre-school programme fully integrated with the Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum. Our unique approach means children learn through dance, and high numbers of pupils sign up after just one taster session.

Flexible Working

Balance your franchise around other commitments. Work part-time hours while earning full-time wages - or even run it alongside another job.

Financially Rewarding

Earn an average hourly wage of £70-£100. By Year 2, a typical franchise can generate profits over £50,000 (based on 24 classes per week).

Zero Risk

All pupil payments are taken in advance, and venue costs are paid in arrears - so your franchise is always in credit.

A Fun & Rewarding Career

Inspire young children, develop their life skills, and bring joy to families every week. Parents consistently tell us your tiny toes class is the highlight of their child's week.

Full Support, Every Step of the Way

From training and business mentoring to IT, social media, marketing, and personal Head Office visits - we're here for you.

Minimal Bureaucracy

Spend your time doing what you love. Our bespoke CRM system handles bookings, payments, registers, emails, lesson plans, certificates, music, and more - all in one place, fully automated.

Testimonials - What our current franchisees say:

"This is by far the best job I have ever had and it's my own business. From the very first time I met Emma, the founder, I knew I was in fantastic hands."

Miss Bianca, tiny toes ballet Staffordshire

"I would highly recommend this business to anyone who has a passion for ballet, dance and interacting with children. I adore running my classes, it's the best 'job' in the world!"

Miss Sonia, tiny toes ballet Pembrokeshire

"Being a franchisee means you get the best of both worlds; a successful brand and concept with an incredible support network at Head Office and across other franchisees, as well as giving you the freedom and benefits of owning your own tiny toes ballet dance and ballet business."

Miss Jess, tiny toes ballet Bridgend & Vale of Glamorgan

The finances

Launch your own children's dance franchise from £2,450

The full investment of £7,995 is spread interest-free across 3 years, starting with just £2,450.

Based on 15 years of franchise performance and 21 active franchisees:

- ✓ Franchisees typically earn back their initial investment within 12 months or sooner
- ✓ Structured support to build classes quickly
- ✓ Affordable, interest free staged payments - no large upfront capital required

A proven business model designed to pay for itself.

You'll receive a proven business model, complete with online booking and management systems, comprehensive lesson plans, and ongoing personal support. With high profit margins, multiple income streams and excellent retention rates, many franchisees achieve full-time earnings while working part-time hours. A full breakdown of costs and profits is available from Head Office.

What are the ongoing operating costs?

There are a small number of ongoing costs involved with operating your tiny toes franchise:

- Management Fee. Between 10% and 15% of turnover (this % decreases as your business grows and includes a 2% advertising levy)
- Attendance of AGM and CPD training. Once per year £100
- Annual on site visit £150 + travel expenses
- Annual performance license: first year free - following this £250 per year
- Public and Employee liability insurance: First year free. Following this £100 per year.
- Cost of hiring venues to teach classes.

All these costs have been included within the operating costs on this page. Overall you can expect that around 50-70% of your turnover will be profit.

Expected Profits of a Year 2 Franchise:

Franchise Type	Turnover (£)	Operating Costs (£)	Profit (£/ year)
Low Part Time	32,256	12,516	22,140
Mid Part Time	66,912	21,521	45,391
High Part Time	131,424	38,552	92,872

Extra revenue streams

Franchisees can boost income through additional opportunities such as school and nursery visits (typically £50-£300 per visit), end-of-year theatre shows and commission on uniform sales. These optional revenue streams vary by franchisee and are not included in the core financial figures.

FAQs

We really hope this brochure has answered some of your initial questions about becoming a franchisee of tiny toes ballet, but we understand that you will have many more before you are ready to take the life-changing decision of taking on a franchise.

Below are some of the most commonly asked questions, but if you want to know anything else at all please contact us directly on 07407348773 or email emma@tinytoesballet.co.uk

Do I need a background in dance?

Yes. You need passion and solid dance training, but professional training or performance isn't required.

Why do I have to pay a management fee?

It's standard practise for franchise operations. The fee covers admin, support from Head Office, website and system upkeep, syllabus improvements, new class materials, and national advertising to promote and protect the tiny toes brand.

Why shouldn't I just set up my own company?

A tiny toes franchise gives you an established programme, branding, marketing, and syllabus from day one. You also get expert support, helping you earn and expand faster than starting from scratch.

What do I learn in training?

Your initial training covers the syllabus, lesson plans, class management, observing and teaching classes, plus setting up your website, using our systems, and marketing your business.

Are there any other hidden costs?

No. We've been as transparent as we can in order to ensure you have the best idea possible about the financial side of your business. The only extra cost is we require you spend 2% of your turnover on local advertising.

What can I expect to earn?

Your income depends on your workload, whether you hire teachers, and if you use extra revenue streams. The brochure figures reflect average second-year franchises without additional staff.

Can I employ other teachers?

Absolutely. This is a great way to take the pressure off yourself once you are teaching a large number of classes. It's also a great way to earn a profit without actually teaching the class yourself. You must ensure DBS checks and insurance are in place.

Can I sell the business?

You can sell your franchise at any point, subject to our terms and conditions. These include first refusal of the sale to Head Office at the same price offered by the prospective buyer, and the right for Head Office to refuse any new franchisee if we feel they would not be a good representative of the tiny toes brand.
